CONGRESSIONAL CAUCUS.

At a caucus of the Republican members of the House of Representatives, held at Washington on Wednesday evening, the interest of the occasion centered in questions bearing upon the impeachment of President Johnson. The first step was an attempt to direct the Judiciary Committee to proceed, during the rossss, with the investigation already begun. Members most carrest in favor of an impeachment desired a special Committee and more speedy action than that of the Judiciary Committee.—
This section was led by Generals Butter and Logan, new members, and Messra. Stovens and Buutwell, former members. This was a triumph of the impeachment party, who hope to reach a conclusion by that time in accordance

The reluctance to proceed at once and continue the present session for that purpose was based upon the fact that several loyal States are as yet unrepresented, their elections not that he opposed a monument of some kind, either by the State, or the towns, or some other having yet taken place. From the decisions as mode. He wished to accertain what the people a whole, it appears that this Congress is much wanted. divided on the advisableness of proceeding with the measure of impeachment. Many of the members believe that, if not impracticable, it is inexpedient, and that, at least, deliberation ought to characterize so grave a proceeding.

The Amendment in Massachusetts.

While the loyal States have generally ratio fied the proposed Amendment to the Countitution with great alsority, it has been made the subject of serious debate in the Massachusetts Legislature, and the Committee on Foderal Relations has presented an elaborate report against its adoption. The adverse argument is, that the Amendment does not go so far as the loyal people demand in the conferring of equal political rights on all classes. This argument has had weight with many who have favored the ratification; but has been waited in view of the faces that other acts of Congress have provided for the equivable distribution of those rights and that the Reconstruction bill just passed remodies the defects left by the Amendment. The difference lies just where so enactment of organic law differs from ordinary acts of legislation; that is, in the possibility of the repeal, by one Congress, of an act passed by its producessor. Beyond question, the assignment of political rights ought to be embedied in the Constitution on which a political society is founded; but, under our government, threefourths of all the States must accept a constitutional provision before it becomes a part of the organic law; and in a case which will not admit delay, as in the present state of the country, it is botter to secure by legislation that which is uncertain if left to State action.

By the Reconstruction act everything is secured to the Southern loyalists beyond the contingency of repost, whereas a constitutional amendment more stringent than that now proposed was sure of defeat; and, while acknowledging a preference for such an amondment as would forever fix the principle of impartial suffrage in the Constitution, we are in favor of go-

'Election' is an abl Rhodo Jeland Indication, and it must be an agrarism or a vandal hand that would attempt to smite it down. It the sentional foencelstic? Does he know what idols he is breaking? If I thought the house of Representatives would entertain and adopt this amendment, I would resign my seat forthwith. But I know they will not hear to it a single moment.

I have often walked into the bick shops of Newport and the other odd and carious retreats where the people meet to directors on public reflicts, and I have heard men chaking their heards deploitely and saying, The next thing Providence will do will be to to try to take election away from Newport. Already the District Court has been legistated away. One after another wo are being shorn of all our ancient and venerable privileges.

List year he voted for me for Speaker, made several highly conservative and proper speeches, established an accellent reputation as a financier. Why he has initiated this measure, I cannot anderstood.

When I speak of Newport and its ancient associations, I do it with no show of sectional feeling. I think I have shown all though the session a large and libral regard for the interest of all portions of the State. When the accultions of the state of the s

Through the Ignorance of the Quack Doctor, knowing no other remedy, he relies upon Mercury, and gives it to all his patients is Fills, Drops, &c., so the Nostrum Maker, equally ignorant, adds to his so-called Extracts, specific, Antidote, &c., both relying upon its effects in caring a few in a hundred, it is trumpated in various ways throughout the brad; but, Alas I nothing is said of the bilance; come of whom die, others grow worse, and are left to linger and suffer for months or years, until relieved or cured, if possible, by competent bity-feisus.

Notwithstanding the foregoing facts are known to sems Quack Doctors and Nostrum Makers, yet, regardless of the life and kealth of others, there are those among them who will perjure themselves, contradicting giving mercury to their patients or that its contained in their Nostrums, so that the "usual feet may be obtained for profit seedly carring, or "the dollar" or "fraction of it" may be obtained for the Nostrum, it is thus that many are deceived also, and uselessly s, end are, accounts for experiments with quackers.

EMAIL DE PARIS, AL R. J. TAYLOR'S.

Peerless Cooking Stove Here is the opinion of the editor of the Roston Jeurnal.—We have been very much pleased in examing a ctove of this pattern, manufactured by Messr. Pratt & Wentworth of Roshary for the Peris Exposition, at the store of W. F. Shaw & Ce., 869 Wasbington Street. It is one of the most brantifally finished articles of kitchen furniture we have ever seen, the moddings being steel finished, the knobs and handles giver plated, the tank and hot closet are made of German gilver, all the hollow ware used on the store is finely enamelled, and the tea-kettle is of harmshed copper.

Among the peculiar merits claimed for this slove is the complete ventilation and even temperature of the even, making it a reasting rather than a a baking over, which is secured by a peculiarly constructed sir-chamber, which heats the air as it passes down behind the fire pot and into the oven, causing the oven to bake or reast perfectly and passes down behind the fire pot and into the oven, causing the oven to bake or reast perfectly and evenly, a great desideration with a careful housewite; the perfect control which can be kept over the fire, and its cleanliness. This stove works equally well with coal or wood. These stoves are of different sizes, and are made plain or with an extension top, the latter being made with a large reservoir for hot water on the top, and a warming closet underneath.
